PRESS REVIEWS

"Robert Nippoldt brings the gangster world with few pencil strokes back to life."
- national television ZDF Aspekte, Luzia Braun, September 2005

"A wonderful panorama of the gangster scene of the Roaring Twenties ... there hasn't been such a beautiful yet bloody book in a long time."
- regional television, NDR TV Kulturjournal, Dr. Paul Kersten, November 2005

"An original book, great research, a pleasure to read - congratulations!"
- national television 3sat bookmark, Helmut Markwort, October 2005

"The only truly memorable event at the Frankfurt book fair this year was seeing Robert Nippoldt's contorted facial expressions of happy concentration as his gaze switched back and forth from his canvas to the portraited subject - a utopia of artistic freedom."
- Kritische Ausgabe magazine, October 2005

"Robert Nippoldt has put together biographical portraits of 33 villains with the same care as a butterfly collector."
- Stern magazine, October 2005

"A wonderfully illustrated expedition through the 1920s crime scene."
- Focus magazine, September 2005
